TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh is recognised universally by Humanist Psychologists as a man of vision and genius who has made a profound impact upon our understanding of human psychology and spirituality. His books are frequently quoted in many articles on the subject of human relationships and rarely do journals of research in this area not mention his revolutionary contributions.

For example, the dynamic meditations he has devised are in use all over the world in psychosomatic medicine, in mental hospitals, in stress alleviation programmes, in sports. One Italian basketball team, doing very badly on the field, transformed their teamwork, their energy and their skill after using these meditations so much so that they got to the top of the league! The improvement was so dramatic that more and more interest is growing in these meditations.

I have qualified and worked as an educational psychologist in child guidance clinics and schools, as a clinical psychologist in mental hospitals and neurological units, and as a research psychologist in a university and a medical research unit. In every one of these areas Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh has made outstanding contributions with his exceptional insight and depth of wisdom. The development of new therapies under his guidance has led to a quantum leap in our understanding and development of human consciousness.

I now co-ordinate the largest growth and meditation centre in Europe at Medina Rajneesh Adult Education Centre, and the rapid growth of this is due entirely to the power and effectiveness of these new techniques devised by Bhagwan. That people come from all over the world in their thousands to take part in these courses bears witness to the growing universal recognition of this man's wisdom and profound spiritual and psychological insight. Over half these visitors are not disciples of Bhagwan but simply people who have recognised his genius and want to learn more. Many, later, after having experienced his wisdom and truth and the greatness of this man, do become his disciples.

Yours faithfully
