To all whom it may concern

My name is Leo Berlips and I am working as a chief-psychologist for the "Institutet för Psykoterapi and Psychodrama" in Göteborg, Sweden. I am a certified psychologist, which corresponds to having a university degree in psychology.

I was asked by a representant of the Rajneesh center in Seden to give my opinion about Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh which I gladly do. The reason for this is that although I never have had a direct contact with him I use several of his methods which he worked out in the field of psychotherapy, especially his: "dynamic meditation excercises". I use these methods since about 8 years with great advantage as exceptional effective preparation methods for intensive psychotherapy in groups. In addition I know many patients who became improved by using his methods at home, instead of using psychopharmaca, in order to arrive at a state of peace of mind.

I consider Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh as one of the leading bridge-builders between classical eastern approaches to psychotherapy and modern western techniques. During my training courses in Holland, Belgium, Germany and Switserland I met many professionals who had the same positive opinion and who considered Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh as a foreground figure in their speciality.

I therefore officialy declare herewith that I consider Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh as a person of exceptional ability in the field of developing modern psychotherapy and by this to thank him for his great contributions in my field.
