To whom it may concern,

I am writing to you concerning Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh.

I was born in Sydney, Australia and obtained a degree in Social Work from the University of New South Wales in 1970. I have practised in Australia and the U.K.

I first heard of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh five years ago at a time when I was considering further study in social work or psychoanalytical training. When I first tried his meditation techniques, especially his "Dynamic Meditation", I knew I had found my "further study".

He has combined psychotherapeutic techniques and meditation in a wonderful way. It has brought love and meditation to my life and work. The social worker/client relationship has become loving and similarly my relationships with colleagues. I have been able to work in public hospitals without becoming cynical or exhausted. I have learnt how work can be meditation.

I feel that in the field of human understanding, Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh is the greatest man in the world today.

Yours sincerely

J Major (JEFFREY MAJOR) B. Soc. Wk
