To whom it may concern

Teaching history, English and sports to the children of the underdogs in one of the most slummy areas of Hamburg is a difficult task. Thanks to the Tape- and Video lectures, books and readings of the works of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh during the 2nd annual World Celebration at Rajneeshpuram, Oregon I've got a lot of ideas and hints of great value how to deal with my quite difficult students and their even more difficult parents as well as my most difficult fellow-teachers. I'm said to be a good teacher but I feel I'll have to improve and I will do so encouraged and inspired by the way a real master (not only of teaching) deals with his disciples.

America should consider itself a proud and luck nation to host Bhagwan. And if you have not yet the right feeling for what is going on here look at your own history. When the mormones create Salt Lake City out of the desert there was little trust in them. Nowadays they can be considered as one of the fundamentums of American Society. What's going on here in the Oregon desert will become judged and estimated even higher some day as well as its value for the American Society and all the world will be.

Sincerely yours,
Boje Ipphardt
