To whom it may concern:

I am studying Chemistry at the Karl-Ruprecht Universität in Heidelberg, West Germany.

Two years ago I became a disciple of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh. It was the time, when Bhagwan went into the silent phase of his work.

Immediately after the first meeting with some of his disciples, I felt a deep desire to go deeper into that "movement". I started doing meditations, which Bhagwan especially created for people from the western-world.

These meditation-techniques are absolutely new. They helped me to realize a lot of tension and to become more silent, loving and creative, so that since that time I changed a lot and feel much more better.

I realized how deep Bhagwan's Shree Rajneesh' understanding of the human psychology is. I really fall in love with his brilliant teachings, which are available in form of more than 360 books. His being is a blessing for me!

During the "Second Annual World Celebration" I experienced Satguru a silent heart to heart communion between the master and his disciple, and felt bliss and overflowing love. Being in his silent presence I also became silent.

That's why I became his disciple. He is my spiritual master and guide.

②

I consider him to be one of the greatest masters, who has ever lived.

He is internationally famous and his tremendous ability to guide people from all over the world; he has over 300 000 disciples; proves that he is an extraordinary person.

As a visitor of Rajneeshpuram to both Annual World Celebrations, I'm amazed, how everything has changed.

It is incredible to see, what the residents of the city of Rajneeshpuram did build up. It shows so clear to me that they work only for Bhagwan and it is their way to show their love towards him.

Thank you.
