

Ma Devagita

To whom it may concern

Never before I saw a man, moving his hands in such a beauty with such a silence.

And slowly my hands start
to move more silently, more beautifully.

Never before I saw a man
with such lovely laughing eyes.

My eyes opened and laughing arises in my eyes.
The most beautiful present
I ever got in my life.

He is it whatever I tried to find in this wilderness of my life.

He is the silence
flowing in the dust of my life.

And I start to dance and I start to laugh
and I start to love

and fear disappears

everybody can come to share this beauty.

One day the flower will disappear.
